4. Ask about Returns and Refunds, it will take you through a proper procedure

Note: You can return items from different orders together, when the items you returned meet the specified conditions. REMEMBER to keep all the items to be returned in 1 package.

Refund method and timing

5. What is the refund method?

1. The refund will be sent to your Kgomo Mart wallet or original form of payment based on the refund method you chose.
2. If you did not select a refund method, we will proceed according to your choice in the refund record.
3. Orders pard with gift cards will return as gift cards.

6. When will I receive my refund?

Once the refund has been processed, you will receive a refund notification email / SMS. Refund time will depend on your refund method and bank.

7. How can I get a Refund if my Credit card or debit card is no longer valid or it has expired?

For Security reasons, refunds can only be sent back to the original card used for purchase.

If your original card has expired, is locked, or is no longer valid, Contact you card issuer or bank directly. They can still safely receive the funds on your behalf and will help you transfer the money to your active account.

8. Exchange Eligibility?

An exchange may be considered when all applicable checks below are satisfied:

- The customer provides a valid order reference, and the item can be matched to the order.
- The item is within the exchange period defined by the business for that product or order.
- The item meets the approved condition requirements, including packaging, accessories, and proof of purchase where required.
- The requested replacement is an eligible catalogue item and is currently available, or the customer agrees to an approved alternative.
- The request is not excluded by an approved product-specific rule, hygiene/safety restriction, or other lawful limitation.

Exchange Process:

- Receive the request: Ask for the order reference, item, reason for exchange, and any required photos or supporting information.
- Verify the order: Confirm the order and item in the order system. Do not request unnecessary personal information.
- Check the rules: Apply the approved exchange window, product exclusions, item condition requirements, and any applicable legal rights.
- Check replacement availability: Confirm the requested replacement is listed and in stock. Do not imply stock is reserved until the system confirms it.
- Confirm price and charges: Explain any price difference, delivery/collection charge, or other fee only where an approved rule authorises it. If no rule is available, escalate rather than guess.
- Obtain approval: Use the configured approval workflow for exceptions, defective goods, disputed cases, or cases requiring a manual decision.

- Arrange return and replacement: Provide the approved return instructions and communicate the replacement dispatch or collection estimate supplied by the system.
- Close the case: Record the decision, reason, item condition, stock check, costs, approvals, and customer communication.

Stock shortages and price differences

- If the replacement is unavailable, explain that availability has not been confirmed and offer only alternatives permitted by the business.
- If the replacement costs more or less, apply the approved payment, credit, or refund procedure. Do not promise a refund or credit without confirmation.
- If no approved alternative or price-adjustment rule exists, refer the case to a human support agent.

9. Cost, Shipping and Timing.

Any return shipping fee, replacement delivery fee, collection charge, processing fee, or delivery estimate must come from the current approved policy or the order/fulfilment system. This document does not set specific fees or timelines. Support staff and the AI Agent must not make up or guarantee them.

10. Records and Privacy.

Record only information needed to handle the exchange and maintain an auditable case history. Handle order details, contact information, images, and other customer data according to the platform's privacy and data-retention policies. Restrict access to authorized personnel.

11. Review and Approval.

Review this policy whenever product scope, fulfilment processes, consumer-law requirements, or customer support workflows change. Approval should be recorded by the policy owner and the relevant legal/compliance or operations reviewer.
